Cotton, Provisions, Etc.

New York, March 24.—Evidently Wall street attaches importance at this time to the attitude of London towards the local securities market, for when it was seen from the morning cabled dispatches that London had reversed its attitude of yesterday and had begun to buy American securities, the disposition manifest here yesterday to sell out and take profits was completely altered. The buying for London account was supplemented by a rush to buy all classes. London's influence was shown in the leadership in the early market of the international favorites, of which Baltimore and Ohio and Denver and Rio Grande slocks were most conspicuous. Baltimore and Ohio rose in the late dealings an extreme 3%, and retained its conspicuous place in the market throughout. Pennsylvania, in which the transactions are rarely on a large scale, was dealt in in 1,000 share lots almost as though that were the normal unit of transactions, and individual transactions in the stock ran from that up to 5,000 shares, which was the size of the block taken whence the price first touched 140. All of the trunk lines were more or less affected by this movement, but

The Cotton Markets.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET.

New York, March 24.—The cotton market opened steady, with prices six and three to five points higher on the far months, this being a not altogether favorable response to a formidable array of bullish influences. The latter comprised strong Liverpool cables, a bullish review by the Chronicle, a wet weather map, rumors of firmness in Southern markets and a goodly number of foreign-buying orders. Shorts became frightened on the call and purchased the present crop deliveries lastily. But the offerings of long cotton from outside sources proved larger than bears had calculated upon, and prices subsequently dropped back several points. Sentiment was sadly mixed with the confusion in this respect increased by conflicting testimated the present standing of field work in general and Texas in particular. The crop movement was light of the indications pointing to a steady dwindling of arrivals at the ports as well as interior towns the coming week.

The market for futures closed barely steady, with prices net one to five points lower.
